

END-OF-SHIFT PRACTICE

Three Things I'm Leaving Here

The end of a shift deserves a moment. Before you head home, take two minutes to set down what you carried today — so a little less of it comes home with you.

Three things that stayed with you today

Name them — a moment, a face, a sentence. You don't have to do anything with them.

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____

What are you physically leaving in the building?

One sentence to close the day

However it actually went. One line, then you're done.
